THE COURTS.

SUPERIOR COURT-TRIAL TERM.

The first witness called in opening the case was the plaintiff, who testided as follows:—

I was the manager of the opera at the Academy of Music in October, 1865; I leased the house for $250 an night for that winter; that season commenced on the 5th of October, 1863, and expired in April, 1864; that was the means by which I made my livelihood; I employed two hundred persons, and the expenses of carrying on the business was $10,000 a week; do not know the defendants in this action; have received applications from the defendants to advertise in their paper; those applications were these: about two days after the first publication in the Sunday Mercury a gentieman came to me and told me to go to the Mercury office and step up to the "captain's office" and settle; I employed persons of different tradea, also police officers.

Gross-enamined by Mr. A. Oakey Hall—I did not have the management of the opera in 1862 and 1863; the season commenced in March, 1863, and continued six weeks; Norma, Jone and Ernani were performed then; the season in the antum began on the 5th October; it was divided into two seasons; I gave three or four performances a week; Medori was there that season; I never had any difficulty with the defendants before the publication of these articles; I determined not to advertise for that season in their paper; I had advertised with them before that time.

The counsel for plaintiff then placed in evidence the article published on the 18th of October, 1863; also the one published on the 18th of October, 1863; also the one published on the 18th of October, 1863; also the one published on the 18th of October, 1863; also the one published on the 18th of October, 1863; also the one published on the 18th of October, 1863; also the one published on the 18th of October, 1863; also the one published on the 18th of October, 1863; also the one published on the 18th of October, 1863; also the one published on the 18th of October, 1863; also the one published on the 18th of October, 1863; also the one of the open were alleged in the article were true or not; also that nothing personal to investeek was said, but that it was a likel, if anything, against the place of anusement; that it was not a charge of malessance, but of non-ferance on his part, if anything; and also that nothing in the article of the 11th of October reflected upon Mr. March

The motion was denied by Judge Russel on the ground that the two inserests could not be separated, and that if a person charged a hotel keeper with keeping a disorder ly house it would affect his business even if he was not mentioned at all. Exception taken.

The counsel for the defence then opened his case by saying that this case belonged to the class of suits called "speculation suits," where it was very uncertain which way a jury would decide. It was a suit where, if the plaintiff did not succeed, he would lake a great deal. It was admitted at the outset that the suit was brought against the defendant's pocket. The counsel then said that a man who seeks equity should act honestly; he should seek justice with clean hands; and if it could be proved that the plaintiff had helped to loosen the morals of the community he estrainly could got set damages at the hands of the jury. For his part be had never heard or read of a more brazen-faced suit than this. Will you give damages to a man who has indalged in the widest criticisms and distribed against others? The speaker continued his remarks by saying that he intended to prove that the plays acted there were immoral in their toudoucy, and instanced Riguiette, as merely a history of seduction from one end to the other, and yet young women are taken to see persons drassed as meretriciously as can be seen nowhere outside of the Black Crook, and to see seduction; but because gamblers and pickpockets whited that place of amneement, that was no disparagement to Mr. Maretzek, because they visit churches and lecture rooms.

duction; but because gamblers and pickpockets whited that place of anneement, that was no disparagement to Mr. Marcizek, because they visit churches and lecture rooms.

After a few more remarks Mr. James P. Bennett was called as a witness for the defence, and testified as follows:—

TESTIMONY OF JAMES P. BENNETT.

I have been in the police department for eighteen years as a detective and policemen; I was acquainted in 1858 with the performances at the Academy of Music; I went there to look out for pickpockets; my stand was in the lobby and on the stoop.

Q. Did you see gamblers and pickpockets in that place of amusement?

Objected to by counsel for the defence, on the ground that the law does not permit any such general allegations to be proved. The counsel said that here was a libel set out in general terms which at once affected the character and reputation of the plaintiff as an operamanger and a man, yet the answer of the defendant was a justification of this. He then proceeded to argue his position at length.

The Court held that the charges could not be proven in separate cases, which, taken in the aggregate, will prove the whole. An exception taken by counsel for plaintiff. The question was then repeated, when the Court ruled that the question should refer to some particular time, and embraced too many persons.

Witness—I have seen pickpockets there and have arrested them there; I have also seen gamblers; I have seen ladies in scarlet opera cloaks going in and have seen ladies in scarlet opera cloaks going in and have seen ladies in scarlet opera cloaks going in and have seen ladies in scarlet opera cloaks going in and have seen ladies in scarlet opera cloaks going in and have seen ladies in scarlet opera cloaks going in and have seen ladies in scarlet opera cloaks going in and have seen ladies in scarlet opera cloaks going in and have seen ladies in scarlet opera cloaks going in and have seen ladies in scarlet opera cloaks going in and have seen ladies in scarlet opera cloaks going in and have seen ladi quenting that place; I think that I mentioned it to the proprietors of the Mercury.

Cross-seamined—I am not connected with Mesure.
Cauldwell & Whitney now; I did not go to the opera at that time; the whispers were told me by persons coming in the office previous to the publication of those articles; I cannot tell who talked to me; I have forgotten; I undoubtedly mentioned at that time who they were; it was told me by several; it became a common thing; I told Mesara. Cauldwell & Whitney as soon as I heard of it; I think it was in the spring of 1863, previous to the publication of the articles in question; I may have seen articles praising the opera in the same paper; I do not know that it was after the article was published.

Redirect—I had nothing to do with the editorial department; I was where all of the people coming in would talk to me first.

Cross-examined by defence—Fellicer was with him; Fellicer introduced Viele to us.

Lucy Fellicer introduced Viele to us.

Lucy Fellicter sworm—The prisoner had been in my employ during a part of 1865; he had no money white at my house; I don't know whether it was $45 or $50 I paid him when he left; I know that he had no means, because he was only in my house two days when he saked me for the loan of $3, and I gave it to him; I saw him in the house the day after the murder, and he said Pellicer had stolen some money from him, and he thought that it was Pellicer mardered Otero; he said he was looking for Fellices. This lady was cross-examined very closely for the defence, but nothing new was elicited.

John Palle sworm—Say Viele the was looking for Pellicer. This lady was cross-examined very closely for the defence, but nothing new was elicited.

John Palls sworn—Saw Viele the morning after the murder, but had no conversation with him.

John F. Samsoni, bookkeeper of the Hotel de Barcelons, sworn—I saw the prisoner in Broadway, on the night of the 22d, between Great Jones street and Bond; he asked me if I had seen any of he friends; I said no; he then said he lost eight ounces in gold, and the others niche it from him; I raw him at the hotel next morning with Edward, and he commenced taking to me, but I told him we were too busy, that one of our boarders had been murdered; two days before the murder the prisoner denied to me that he knew anything about Gonzales; I was speaking to him about Gonzales not paying his bill.

Cross-examined by defence—He denied all knowledge of Gonzales; this was previous to the murder; the morning after the murder look, accompanied by Pau, came into the hotel, but, being too busy, I had no time to speak to him, and he left in about five minutes after; the night of the murder I mot the prisoner, about eleven o'clock, on Broadway; to the hest of my impression the panis he had on were black; the morning he breakfanted at the hotel I got a letter for him and answered it for him; the night of the murder I ma wn othing in his manner to attract my attention, and the morning after he appeared the same way.

Fernando Roderigues and Officer Relly were also examined, but their testimony was of no importance.

Henry Bromms (a boy) sworn, mad;—I fired in November, 1855, in Centre street; recollect Pellicer and Gonzales coming to our house in November, 1855, in Centre street; recollect Pellicer and Gonzales coming to our house in November, 1855, in Centre street; recollect Pellicer and Gonzales coming to our house in November, 1855, in Centre street; recollect Pellicer and Gonzales coming to our house in November, 1960.

and inquired for Pellicer; I saw him in the jai he went up into their room; I saw him in the jai time after; it was shout an hour and a half after sales came back with his whiskers shaved that came to the house.

On cross-examination this witness was very con-ast to the fact of Gonzales and Pellicer stopping room together, and about the latter going away.

William Bromme was next examined and cross-ined without any new testimony being citicited.

without any new testimony being efficied an P. Hollin was next examined, and identified handed to bim, which he said was to Mr. Romestone.

as to the prisoner's always having a little money, paying whenever he could what he owed, and spent his money liberally.

David J. Donlap, faworn—I heard a conversation at the station house, when Pellicer was complaining of his having been handourded; Pellicer said, "They say I have murdered you man," and visite said, "They say I have murdered you man," and visite said, "Who dare say so?" Yiele then remarked, "Why don't you say you were drunk and had a fight with somebody." Pellicer then said, "I believe I did drink too much," they then commenced to tak in the Catalan language, which I do not undorstand; two racors and a dagger were shown to Viele, and he identified one of them as his property.

Two or three other wincesses were next examined, but nothing of importance was gleaned from their evidence, and it belief them five o'clock, and one of the councel complaining of sickness the court adjourned to ten o'clock this morning.
